SPRING 2020

Be joyful in hope,
patient in affliction,
faithful in prayer.

ROMANS 12:12

Dear Friends,

As we transition from winter to spring, we see the slow evolution of the snow melting, the grass peeking out and even some of the birds returning. It reminds us that even though there may be times when our life seems bleak, each day provides us with signs of hope.

In February, we were pleased to attend the Ordination of Bishop Donald DeGrood as our 9th Bishop of the Sioux Falls Diocese. We look forward to working with him in serving the people of our Diocese.

This year we will celebrate seven Jubilarians who have joyfully served their sisters and brothers throughout the world. These Sisters have, and continue to, provide hope and love to all, working for justice, and dedicating themselves to making the world a better place for all to live.

We continue to celebrate our Presentation People both in the United States and around the world. Joining together, we help each other, sharing and advancing the Mission of Nano Nagle with those most in need.

Uniting in our work for justice, we look to others with similar missions, for partnerships in our ministries. Together, we can do so much more by helping to carry the burden of others while lifting each other up in a spirit of hope.

Through all of these times, let us be reminded of the love of our Creator. A love so strong, that He gave us his Son, so that all of us may have Hope in the Resurrection.

In peace and mercy,

Sisters Janice, Mary, Lucille, and Vicky

Presentation Sisters Leadership Team

One of the most calming and powerful actions you can do to intervene in a stormy world is to stand up and show your soul.

Soul on deck shines like gold in dark times.

The light of the soul throws sparks, can send up flares, builds signal fires ... causes proper matters to catch fire.

To display the lantern of soul in shadowy times like these – to be fierce and to show mercy toward others, both – are acts of immense bravery and greatest necessity.

Struggling souls catch light from other souls who are fully lit and willing to show it. If you would help to calm the tumult, this is one of the strongest things you can do.

We honor these Presentation Sisters for their combined 445 years of service to those in need. Daily, they continue

Presentation People Inspire HOPE

This past fall, employees were invited to join the Sisters at their Congregational meetings. Together, we listened and learned as Sister Lynn Levo talked about becoming a transforming presence as we learn to thrive in this time of ongoing change. Our hearts were touched as we learned from Sister Lynn about the different stages of loss we may be experiencing, but also to explore the gifts that can come from this time of change. She showed us how hope stands up, gives us courage, and comforts us during feelings of loss. We are reminded that hope is a choice for us and this virtue calls us to be fully human as we live in relationship with God and each other.

The virtue of hope is seen in prayer and scripture. The Prayer of St. Francis prompts us to seek joy and hope in times of sadness and despair. Romans 5:5 tells us that, "... hope does not disappoint." We place our hope in a loving and faithful God who promises us eternal life, and we rely on the strength of our Lord to carry us though. People strive to be happy, but we must accompany this with hope for those times when we feel discouraged or alone.

Hope has sustained us throughout time. As we know, our foundress Nano lived during dark times in Cork, Ireland. Despite the odds, she

"I am proud to be a Presentation Person and part of a movement as we work together to continue and sustain Nano's Mission each and every day. I have been part of the Presentation Family for many years and have learned and seen up close the importance of Nano's foundation from teaching, healing, caring, and helping others in need."

- Kathy Traphagen,
Presentation Employee and Cojourner Candidate

never lost sight of the hope for a brighter future for her people in Ireland. Through determination and prayer, it was her faith in the Lord that sustained her as she wrote, "I am confident the great God will direct you to what is most to God's glory. We must think the Almighty permits everything for the best."

The message of hope has been stirring in the hearts of our Presentation Family. As we unite around the Presentation Mission, we look to how we can join together, helping to carry the burden of others while lifting each other up in a spirit of hope. We are energized for the future as we work to carry on Nano's mission and charism. The light is shining brightly as we look for new ways to carry this forward together. ●

We invite you all to join us, as we intentionally inspire hope in ourselves and to all those we encounter. For more information on connecting more fully with other Presentation People, please contact Carrie Hansen, Cojourner Coordinator, at cojourner@presentationsisters.org.

"Nano was such a brave woman. Despite the penal codes of her time, and sometimes her own fears, she never said 'no' to a calling to help the marginalized. I think of her whenever I feel I am being called to do something outside of my comfort zone. I call upon her and the Lord to help me discern the call. Walking with other Presentation People, where we are called, gives me strength knowing we can do more together."

- Jan Lenz,
Presentation Cojourner

Peace Prayer of Saint Francis

Lord, make me an instrument of your peace:
where there is hatred, let me sow love;
where there is injury, pardon;
where there is doubt, faith;
where there is despair, hope;
where there is darkness, light;
where there is sadness, joy.

O divine Master, grant that I may not so much seek to be consoled as to console,
to be understood as to understand,
to be loved as to love.

For it is in giving that we receive,
it is in pardoning that we are pardoned,
and it is in dying that we are born to eternal life.

Amen.

INTERNATIONAL PRESENTATION ASSOCIATION

Faces for Change

The International Presentation Association is a network of the various congregations of Sisters of the Presentation of the Blessed Virgin Mary around the world, formed to foster unity and to enable collaboration for the sake of Mission. Our Mission is to speak and act in partnership with others for global justice from a contemplative stance in a spirit of oneness with the whole of creation. (2017 IPA Assembly)

You can learn more about the International Presentation Association on their website: internationalpresentationassociation.org

Article written by Sister Elena Hoye, Dubuque PBVM, and adapted to fit this newsletter.

Presentation People embody the compassion of Jesus and their foundress Nano Nagle. They practice non-violence of mind and heart as they listen to the chaos and feel the pain of our time. They believe that revitalizing their organization with new goals and new structures will launch their mission further into a future in order to help create a welcoming place for all life, a place of justice, non-violence and compassion.

The International Presentation Association (IPA) was formally launched in 1988 by Presentation Sisters to collaborate more fully on both a national and international level. On six continents and in 24 countries, its members, comprised of sisters, associate, and friends, are referred to as Presentation People. They work with each other and people of good will to foster personal and systemic change for people and Earth.

As sharers of the charism of Nano Nagle, and guided by faith, they aspire to live Gospel hospitality, compassion, and simplicity for all of creation. The cry of Earth and people made poor calls them to continue the mission of Jesus and help bring to birth a sustainable society founded on respect for Earth, universal human rights, economic justice, and a culture of peace. Informed by a contemplative stance, and a spirit of oneness, they speak and act in partnership with others for global justice and the eradication of poverty.

A movement of God's Spirit is afoot in our time; a new consciousness is rising within the whole of the human community as well as the Presentation Family. This worldview that Presentation People embrace is one that promises movement toward a global community, a community which provides a welcoming place for all children of the world, as well as a nurturing place for all plants and animals. Justice, non-violence, and compassion are characteristics of such a world.

providing policy advice to senior government officials on the rights of women and children and has also worked as an external consultant to a law firm in Uganda that provides advice on gender equality and human rights.

Sister Ann Marie Quinn (standing, far left) and Sister Janice Klein (standing, far right) joined other Sisters and partners at the International Presentation Association gathering in Sydney, Australia in September 2017.

Sister Mary Therese Krueger, a Presentation Sister of Dubuque, Iowa, has been hired as the program action leader. This new position forms part of a two-way communication channel between the IPA communities from grassroots level (local) via the IPA justice contacts and the IPA NGO representative at the United Nations (global). She will facilitate advocacy on the issues and resolutions of the IPA foci of women and children; care of Earth; and indigenous peoples. These issues will guide the ongoing implementation of the UN's Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

As this vision has deepened and developed, the IPA directors were commissioned to restructure the organization to better embrace this expanding vision. Presentation Sisters, Gabrielle Morgan from Australia, Joy Peterson from United States, and Sharon Fagan from Ireland, serve as IPA directors and strive to advance a more intentional association with new governing structures, practices, and procedures.

Other leadership positions we are working with include Dr. Despoina Afroditi Milaki who recently assumed the position of IPA NGO (non-governmental organization) representative ensuring that the work of the IPA continues at the United Nations. Despoina has substantive knowledge of the UN system,

A new spirituality and charism team has three co-leaders who are Presentation Sisters Dorothy Scesny from New Windsor, New York; Maria Lazzaro from Victoria, Australia; and Terry Abraham living in rural Zambia, Africa. The focus of work for this team links Presentation spirituality and the charism of Nano with the actions of IPA's members. This team will offer materials from a faith perspective to inspire energy and meaning for all Presentation People.

With an eye to the future, Presentation Sisters, associates, and friends choose life, life for this beloved Earth, and for all of their sisters and brothers. The stakes are high; there is much to do. Through IPA, Presentation Sisters have firmly established their direction for this day and for days to come.

The Naomi Project

The Naomi Project's humble beginnings were inspired by the example in the Biblical Book of Ruth where Naomi helped her immigrant daughter-in-law, Ruth, understand what her rights were as an immigrant and a worker, how she could exercise those rights, and establish herself in her new land.

Jordan Bruxvoort, Director of the Naomi Project in Sioux Falls, began working over a decade ago in Western Michigan as a community organizer focused on workers' and immigrants' rights. While in Grand Rapids, Jordan worked for the Micah Center, a coalition of churches that spearheaded a campaign that successfully moved the city of Grand Rapids to adopt a responsible contracting policy.

After moving with his family to Sioux Falls in the fall of 2016, Jordan discerned an opportunity to apply some of what he learned in Grand Rapids to launch a non-profit in Sioux Falls focused on workers' and immigrants' rights. The Naomi Project began in the summer of 2017.

Many of the first workers to reach out to the Naomi Project were referrals from Caminando Juntos, the Presentation Sister's ministry with Latinos in Sioux Falls. The partnership between Caminando Juntos and the Naomi Project continues with a mutual goal of working for justice for our newly arrived immigrant neighbors.

The Naomi Project educates workers about their rights in the workplace. Often times, a worker doesn't realize they have options or how to navigate a difficult situation. Jordan and his team hold trainings for individuals on addressing work place rights, wage, health, and safety concerns. Additionally, they help raise awareness in the community on the signs of labor trafficking. He works closely with the team at Caminando Juntos, offering support and sharing resources as they can.

"Before the Naomi Project existed, Caminando Juntos could offer little to no hope for victims of labor trafficking. Now with these efforts, the possibility of restoring the dignity of the human person exists, empowering them to be agents of change in the workplace and the community! The Naomi Project is JUSTICE IN ACTION!" exclaims Sister Pegge Boehm, Support Services and Advocate at Caminando Juntos.

A story Jordan shared with us:

Oscar and Elias worked in Virginia, to which smugglers had coaxed both of them. They worked 14-hour days, seven days a week, making less than minimum wage with no overtime pay. Taking a day off was not an option.

One day, Elias received a call from someone who said he knew his dad. The caller asked about Elias's job, listened to his concerns and proposed a solution. He suggested a construction company in South Dakota, with promises of high wages, housing included and travel costs reimbursed.

After arriving in South Dakota, wages dwindled to $4 an hour, exorbitant fees disappeared from Oscar's and Elias's checks for dilapidated housing, with threats of calling immigration when they raised questions. Disregard for their safety almost cost Elias and another co-worker their lives.

A few years after that traumatic experience, Oscar and Elias connected with the Naomi Project through a reference from Caminando Juntos. In addition to working with the Naomi Project to recover unpaid wages, Oscar and Elias began attending Naomi Project meetings and connecting with others who had experienced injustice.

"I think we were asking ourselves, "Do we have value?", Oscar reflected, "and after a while, we decided that yes, we do have value!"

Today, Oscar and Elias own their own construction company. With the help of a partner and the Naomi Project, they were able to complete the paperwork, open a bank account and find an accountant. Now with their company up and running, Oscar and Elias are eager to get to work, not only for themselves but also for those that they hope to hire. "We don't want other people to have to go through what we went through," explained Oscar.

"In our time with the Naomi Project we became free of the fear that had controlled us and began to think more about the future. Our business is a fruit of the work of the Naomi Project, and we see it as a ministry," affirmed Elias. ●

Slave-Free South Dakota

Slave-Free South Dakota is the Naomi Project's new campaign to bring awareness on the indicators of labor trafficking. The Naomi Project is inviting businesses to become part of Slave-Free South Dakota by committing to contract only with construction companies that have already received this training to report and identify labor trafficking.

May we work together to end labor trafficking within our state. To discover more on the Naomi Project or Slave-Free South Dakota, please contact Jordan Bruxvoort at: director@projectofnaomi.org or visit www.projectofnaomi.org.

In Loving Memory

As we say farewell to our dear Sisters, we remember them with joy. While their time with us seems all too brief, each followed the path God laid for them, and God has taken their hands to lead them home. We lift up our hearts for they received faith's reward, the fullness of life with God.
