Surprises are part of all of our lives. I had a few surprises that came to me over the weekend when my computer went on the blink, and I was not able to get it fixed. I thought I would be able to get it fixed on Monday, but when I was told they would have to take my computer to the shop to get it fixed, I started to make other arrangements to getting my work done. After making the arrangements, I learned that someone was going to lend me a computer until my other one got fixed, so that allowed me to try to do things as I had originally planned. However, it took me some time to get adjusted to the new computer. God was good and gave me help!

As I listened to the news the other evening, I heard about the 'guilty' verdict of the George Floyd murder trial. I was surprised by that, as I expected that the police officer would have gotten off free. As I listened to President Biden speak to the nation that evening, I was surprised by his words: "No one should be above the law." How true, but don't we think that the police are often 'above the law'?

Another surprise that we had here in the Aberdeen area was the snow that fell and made the ground all white. I had begun to think that winter was past – and summer would follow soon. Maybe God has other surprises for us.

What kind of surprises have you experienced this past week? Were they happy surprises, or sad ones? How did you arrange to work through the surprises? Let us ask God to guide us through the many difficulties in our lives.

Let us trust in God's love for all of us!
