

February 24, 2022

The month of February is moving fast. It won't be long before we will be starting the month of March; and the season of Lent will be with us. I will keep you all in my prayers during that time.

One of the things that I like to do here where I live -- is to go downstairs where we have pictures and stories of our sisters who have died, and read about them. Some of these Sisters I have never met, but others are some that I had known years ago. It gives me lots of joy as I read about them, and I beg them to pray for me to someday to join them in heaven. One of the Sisters who had died during the month of February had been the librarian here at our College when I entered, and I remember having known and visited with this Sister years ago. I look forward to seeing her again in heaven.

I urge you to learn about the people who have gone before you in life. They may have been your cousins or aunts and uncles. Even when I go to my hometown for Memorial Day I love to spend time in the cemetery, and think about my relatives there. Some of them I might not have met, but some are those I would love to meet. One of the stories I have is about my great-grandmother who died long before I was born. In fact, I understand that her grave is the first one in that cemetery, but I look forward to meeting her in heaven someday. Do you have any relatives that you might want get to know when you get to heaven? I urge you to ask your parents about them. What is interesting to you about their life?

Blessings to you all as we move into the month of March.
